

PartyBoyX was born and raised in Connecticut. He attended, Stratford high school. Though he felt that school was not for him, he knew he had to do what he had to do to make a way for himself. PartyBoyX discovered his love for music since elementary school. He recalls the time spent on the school bus with his friends, they would make beats and freestyle on the bus just for fun. Music has always been easy for him, it was always a gift that was always in his blood and flowed effortlessly.

PartyBoyX, always surrounded by people who had a love for music that he admired. His uncle had a gift for rapping and was always pouring into PartyBoyX from a young age. He influenced him to pursue his passion for music and to make his dream of one day making it big come true. His uncle placed him in rap battles since he was 6 years old, this just helped him to become better and better over time.

PartyBoyX recorded and released his first song when he was in his junior year in high school. He thought the song was decent, but realized it was creating a lot of buzz among his friends at school. He then did a remix by Bobbie Shmurda-, which was a banger! PartyBoyX became more diligent in going to the studio daily in his junior year. In his senior year, he was approached by Frank Luperaillo, (aka Been Franklin), who proposed to mentor and develop him. He said he discovered his talent and wanted to help PartyBoyX perfect his craft. They met at his studio to discuss his vision. The best part was that he wanted to invest in him at no charge.

The return would be that PartyBoyX would work up to his fullest potential under his tutelage. On their first day working in the studio, they recorded a song called "Hot Nega freestyle". Since then PartyBoyX knew something special was going to happen because of this partnership. He continued to work with Frank for three years, and recorded about 300 songs. Each day he became more and more committed to developing his craft. In 2010, Frank began doing sound engineering for him.

Frank and PartyBoyX began traveling, doing shows, and networking with some influential people in the industry. While working with Omar, PartyBoyX was introduced to GKey (aka G.A.B) Omar asked GKey to be involved in hosting PartyBoyX mix cd titled "Mighty Buck" which was released in February 2017. The cd quickly flooded the streets and made a name for PartyBoyX.

Hosting the Mighty Bucks mix cd is what proved to GKey that PartyBoyX had something special and just needed to be polished. PartyBoyX needed management and artist development to get him to that next level and that's where GKey came in at, and started handling all Trey Havoc music affairs. PartyBoyX recorded his first music video titled "Trap God" and right away he started buzzing. PartyBoyX is excited about the trajectory of his life in the music industry. In the near future he plans to build his own empire. His dream is not a vision for the future, but his dream is already here. He is also a partner of an independent label called "Clean North". He wants to impact the lives of other aspiring artists with his music. He now understands the uniqueness in his sound that sets himself apart from others. He has and will continue to allow his pain and life experiences to birth fresh music.
